“Since last year, care pathways, designed by clinicians to set out what the future of care should look like in each NHS region, are being actively used to determine the numbers and types of professionals we need for the future.”

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH,
HIGH QUALITY CARE FOR ALL,
OUR JOURNEY SO FAR, 30 JUNE 2009.

Care Pathways are increasingly being recognised as one of the most valuable tools you can use to maintain and improve standards of care delivery and improve the patient experience.

Through a series of presentations, this one day conference, supported by EPA, provides important updates on developing effective Care Pathways, with a focus on QIPP: Quality Innovation Productivity and Prevention and the role of Care Pathways in delivering QIPP. Deborah Murphy Directorate of Specialist Palliative Care Royal Liverpool will provide an explanation of QIPP and how Care Pathways can support the QIPP agenda

“I want to make clear that quality, innovation, productivity and prevention is not a top-down, national initiative. It is about the NHS working in different ways to ensure that we deliver the highest-quality care. I am taking personal responsibility for QIPP and will make it a significant part of my day-to-day work. It will also be the main focus of the work of the NHS Management Board from September.” David Nicholson, NHS Chief Executive, states in ‘The Month for the NHS leadership community’ Issue 22, July 2009

Following the chairman’s introduction, you will have the opportunity to hear from a variety of healthcare professionals covering topics including a step-by-step guide to planning and writing a Care Pathway, integrating financial and cost information in order to deliver and monitor quality improvement and Care Pathways for prevention across healthcare boundaries.

You’ll also hear about the latest developments and tools that can help in integrating clinical outcome indicators and measures into the Care Pathway, providing you with a range of examples to take back to improve care in your own organisation.
